Above is a photo of Art escorting Doris (Sandoval) Dettmer during Homecoming. 1976. Doris , who is a very close friend, as well as was in my wedding party called today sadden to hear about Art. He was such a sweet guy.

Below is what I posted on face book explaining how and what lead me to find out about his death.

My fellow Berlin Brats, its hard for me to explain, last night I had a dream that I ran in to a fellow Berlin Brat and friend "Art Anthony". In my dream Art was seated at a lunch table to my right he was dressed in a white shirt and tie corporate pants , had his hand leaning up against his head and was just looking at me smiling. As I ran passed him I was apologizing for running in my bare feet in a corporate office and told him I would explain later. We smiled as I ran past him.

The last time I saw Art was at my reunion that I coordinated back in 1987 in Greenbelt Maryland he was loved by all. Since then many have been asking how to contact him. Unfortunately I was unable to find out where he was living until this June.

This morning I couldn't shake this dream off so I shared it with my husband and called up a fellow Berlin brat from the class of 76. Something was leading me to search in a direction I did not want to go. Sadly through my google search I learned our friend, Art had passed away a few weeks ago in May. This 76' Berlin brat will be truly missed. If you have any stories about our fellow brat please feel free to share. God bless.

My condolences to the Anthony family.

Lastly, I know there is no scientific evidence that visitation dreams are actually possible. But that does not mean they are impossible! Ask any of the thousands of people who have had visitation dreams, and you will find that many people believe they are indeed real. I was told there are many well respected and well known psychics and priests who will tell you that communicating with the dead in our dreams is very much indeed possible. If that is all true I feel truly blessed. :}

Have a great summer...
